Defining an adaptive integration platform for one of the largest Global CPG leaders
The Challenges

- To roll out new direct to consumer eCommerce initiatives rapidly
- To streamline data flow across all systems and enable syndication to downstream systems
- To build a library of reusable APIs which can aggregate data from multiple backend systems and make it accessible and consumable to deliver real business value
- Need for a scalable, robust, and cost-effective API platform to sustain and grow business integration

Our Solution

- Built the solution based on MuleSoft (CloudHub iPaaS) that supports hybrid integration, API management, and Service-oriented architecture
- Created API for eCommerce, enabling faster time to market and reuse resulting in cost saving
- Enabled multi-cloud integration with Salesforce, Ariba, azure, and GTES (Global Travel Expense System)
- Defined C4E (Center For Enablement) Model and provided governance, templates, best practices, standardizing code, and reusable components
- Reduced effort using reusable components and API Led connectivity
- Enabled mutual authorization and API throttling
- Enabled rapid development using Salesforce platform
- Delivered the entire project within the tight timeline of just 5 months

The Results

- 2.5X faster project delivery
- Reduced cost per API
- Deployments for new initiatives are 4x faster – reducing execution time from months to days
- Need for a scalable, robust, and cost-effective API platform to sustain and grow business integration
- Higher adoption through self-service integrations
- Reduced TCO (Total Cost of Ownership) by consolidating disparate set of middleware platforms to MuleSoft
